Hobson City plans new senior center, library

By Amy Sieckmann

Star Staff Writer

05-12-2002

HOBSON CITY

Folding chairs and a few card tables take up most of the space in Hobson City's existing Senior Citizens Center located in a small back room of the town's city hall.

The city's library is a single room, squeezed between the mayor's and city clerk's offices.

But city officials now have the money and plans to build a new 3,300-square-foot center and library building.

"We hope to send out bids and find a contractor soon to start work on it," Mayor Robert Pyles said.

The architectural drawing by Anniston's Christian and Associates now is on display at city hall.

While the new center design is slightly smaller than the originally proposed 4,400-square-foot building, it will be a change for residents from the 300-square-foot center and one-room library they have now.

The building will feature a kitchen, office, dining room and porch on the senior center half of the building; and a bathroom, computer room, office, conference room, library and porch on the library side.

It will be next door to the city's town hall, with an entrance built off Centennial Park. The street department will be responsible for maintaining the property.

Although only about 12 seniors use the center most days, Pyles said, he believes more will come when the new place is built.

"There are a lot of senior citizens in Hobson City and I hope to pull more in with this," Pyles said.

Pyles said there has been an effort to build a new center/library for the past three or four years, but it was not until now that the city has received enough grant money to do it.

Last year, the city got a $250,000 grant from Alabama Department of Economic and Community Affairs. This year, it received a $50,000 grant from the governor's discretionary fund with the help of state Rep. Barbara Boyd, D-Anniston.

The building will cost about $280,000 to build, Pyles said.

Like cars? Head to Hobson City Saturday

By Amy Sicckmann

Star Staff Writer

08-30-2002

HOBSON CITY

For most people, a police officer coming around the side of their car is the last thing they want to see on a Saturday afternoon.

This weekend, folks are lining up for that in Hobson City, in advance of the first-ever Ride and Thump contest, sponsored by the city's police department

Saturday, the Hobson City Police Department will host a contest for the best car and another for the best truck. The contests will be followed by another, for the best sound system in a car or truck.

Contestants must register before 10 a.m. Saturday. Those interested can sign up at the city's police department any time today, or at a registration table that will be set up at the event at 9 a.m. Saturday.

The event runs from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. The car and truck contests will take place at the Hobson City Football Field, next to the Municipal Complex, across from C.E. Hanna Elementary School. The contest begins at noon and awards should be given out around 1 p.m., depending on the number of entries, Police Chief Daryl Parker said.

The Thump music/sound contest begins at 2 p.m. in the parking lot of C.E. Hanna, and awards will probably be given out around 3 p.m., Parker said. Music with profane language or explicit lyrics is prohibited.

Parker said the city's noise ordinance will be set aside for C.E. Hanna's parking lot on that day -but nowhere else in town.

Hobson City town councilman Freddie Striplin said he hopes about 100 to 150 cars and trucks will be entered in the event.

The event is a way to show Hobson City is a safe place for the whole family to have a fun time for the weekend, said Parker, who came up with the contest idea.

"Hobson City has really improved in the past few years from what it used to be," Parker said. "I want people to see that, and see that they can walk the streets and feel safe and have a good time."

The entry fee is $15 for the car and truck contest. The Thump music/sound contest entry fee is also $15. The fee to enter a car or truck in both contests is $25. The money raised will go to the Hobson City general fund, which also funds the police department.

Parker said the department could use quite a few pieces of new equipment and he hopes this weekend's event will bring in enough money to purchase some of those items.

Mayor Robert Pyles will give out the first-place trophies. Awards also will be given to second- and third-place winners for each contest.

A concession stand will be operating and the city will host a raffle. Several area businesses, including many restaurants and car-related businesses, have donated gift certificates and stereo systems for the raffle.

Michael Rogers, who owns Audio Extremes in Oxford, said he plans to close his business early to be there with his family.

"I think it is very cool, actually, that the police would have a sound show, and I thought it was a very positive step, having the police department down there to set up an event for kids to go to. It gives them something to do, other than ride around, with all the money they have spent on their systems," Rogers said.

Rogers added that he has seen a business increase in the past two weeks because of the contest. He said four people have come in to have custom-built stereos put into their cars, and he expects them to be at the event this weekend.

The average custom-built stereo system, he said, costs about $3,500 to $4,500, but he added that he has built them for as much as $50,000.

"This is what kids do now. When I was young, we spent all our money on our engines," Rogers said. "This is something for them to do constructive. I have two kids, and I would much rather them be using their money for their stereo or car than be using it for gang- or drug-related things."

For more information, contact Chief Parker at the Hobson City police department at 831-0445.
